The Georgian Orthodox Church celebrates Mtskhetoba, Svetitskhoveloba today.

Divine liturgies are being delivered in honour of Svetiskhoveli Cathedral ('the Living Pillar Cathedral') in churches nationwide.

"People entering the churches will undergo temperature checks. They should wear a face mask and observe social distancing rule," the Patriarchate said in a statement.

Svetitskhovloba holiday is celebrated twice a year, on October 14 and July 13.
