Turkish Christians seek better legal inclusion

Ξένες γλώσσες / In English

Germany's president Christian Wulff, left, is welcomed by Bishop Grigorios Melki Urek of Adiyaman in Tarsus, Turkey.

The small Christian minority in this predominantly Muslim country is hoping for an improvement to its legal and social situation as Turkey comes under increasing pressure to address their problems and after Abdullah Gul, Turkey's head of state, said publicly that he is also the president of non-Muslims.
